

ALBERTA ASSOCIATION ON GERONTOLOGY

Welcome Message

On behalf of the Alberta Association on Gerontology, I am honoured and delighted to welcome you to Vision 2030 for Seniors Services Symposium. We are all well aware that Alberta's senior population continues to grow older and will begin to peak at 2030. Are we ready?

To explore this question, this Symposium brings together seniors serving sectors – including researchers, academia, health care providers, community-based service providers, and technology innovators – to inform the future of services for Alberta's aging population.

We are privileged to have local, national and international speakers share their expertise and experience on various topics including wellness and independence, enhancing community capacity, addressing diversity, integrating health and social services and meeting future anticipated healthcare needs.

Throughout the planning process, the high level of commitment to this Symposium was evident from the community focus groups to the collaborative planners and valued sponsors. Thank you to each of you. Your commitment and support have made this Symposium possible.

I look forward to joining you in this unique opportunity as we discuss and deliberate the many facets of services for seniors. I encourage you to stay engaged and participate in the learning opportunities, conversations and networking that will all contribute towards shaping the future for Alberta's seniors.

Sincerely,

Linda Stanger
AAG President
Alberta Association on Gerontology
